Approximate Total:

$235 - $300

$650 - $900

$2,150 - $4,500+

* Budget represents the least costly version that provides any physical protection to the area. In many cases this will not be adequate to prevent injury and in most cases would provide only enough protection to allow the wearer time to flee the area, not to remain at the protest after the first instance of crowd control weapon deployment

** Mid-tier gear is generally protective aside from direct hits/extended contact. This range is not ideal / fully protective from even serious harm, but with luck it can take the injury level down a couple notches most of the time.

*** Top-tier gear is what I would recommend when cost is not a primary concern. The example links are to the low end of the top range and reflects the least expensive version I'm aware of for fully protective items. Generally speaking it is the civilian version of what law enforcement would use to protect themselves against similar threats; however, police are able to obtain it at a lower cost.
